Family Fun Night in Zuni Pueblo
Friday, July 7, 2006

About 600 people came for the Family Fun Night held Friday, July 7, 2006! The event consisted of an array of activities for the kids, booths by other departments in the village of Zuni , Bingo with great practical prizes, balloon animals/face painting, a magic show, gifts (Disney toys donated by SACC Collectibles) and lots of food for everyone. Joining us in Zuni were David & Judy Rhodes, ACSI Director, Rocky Mountain Region and Randy & Cheryl Bear Barnetson and friends. Cheryl danced and sang and then gave out 100 CDs! Arden, a member of the Zuni Tribal Council, was one of our popular Bingo callers! We plan on making this an annual event with even more to offer next year!

A very special thanks to Shelly Chimonis, her staff and the youth of the Zuni Pueblo. You were awesome!

NOOKSACK TRIBAL YOUTH

A summary of the accomplishments for the three-year grant period are as follows:

Bridging the gap between our Elders and the Youth (2003-2004) Luncheons:

The Tribal Youth Program worked with the Elders program and the Casino to provide funding for the Youth to have lunch with the Elders on a daily basis during the summer. The objective of this activity was to have the youth interact with their Elders and for the Elders to connect with the Youth—increasing communication and bridging the gap between the two groups. A bond was created during these lunches that continues in many ways. The Youth has been involved in assisting at the annual Elders Dinner in November by serving, setting, cleaning and handing out hand-made gifts.

Stick-games class:

The Youth played stick games with the Elders, learning different songs and obtaining tips and tricks about the game. Elders taught the Youth how the game was used traditionally to settle disputes among the people prior to European contact. There were many games throughout the summer of 2004. The Youth were challenged by the Umatilla Tribal Youth and journeyed down to Pendleton, Oregon to play against them and also to assist them with learning the traditional game. Nooksack youth met with the Elders of Umatilla Nation—creating lasting bonds with their people. Umatilla youth, in turn, visited with Nooksack youth during the fall of 2004. The stick games and visits between the two youth groups have turned into an annual event.

Canoes, Traditional & Racing 2002-2005:

Everyday in the spring, the Youth begin practicing for the canoe season. The youth compete in races throughout the lower mainland of British Columbia and along the coast of Washington. They traveled every weekend to different tribes to participate in water festivals. At these water festivals there are also running competitions, traditional dance exhibitions, Princess and Warrior pageants, soccer games, softball games, lacrosse, field hockey and stick games. The youth learn different dances into shape by choosing their teams, joining in a day long competition in the center for 1 hour and doing time trials. The Youth learn that putting canoes is not just a competition; there is a process—a tradition of learning who you are, where you come from and what you will be bringing into the canoe. They learn that the canoe is a vessel that has given its life for you to use. Respect is the key in becoming a canoe puller and the youth learn this from the family that trains them. They learn about the importance of the canoe. They also learn about the environment, about Canoeing, about strength, about Wind and about being an extension of something greater than they are. There is no smoking, no drinking and no foul language allowed. The Youth raised funds by making paddles to raffle and by doing car washes. The community has come together to help the Youth with their desire to compete and to carry on their tradition.

Teen Life Skills Workshop/Personal Boundaries awareness:

Throughout the last three years, the youth have been exposed to lessons in setting higher education goals by the Juvenile Justice Coordinator. The JJC has also directed the youth to the appropriate services for counseling, homework assistance, Tribal Council representation, fundraising, camping, hikes, networking and so on.

A workshop was offered once a week during the summer months for the girls to learn how to set personal boundaries and how to use positive assertiveness. The girls also had a few sessions about setting and attaining personal goals.

Culturally Related activities:

The JJC has also exposed the youth (after conferring with the Elders of the community) to culturally-related activities including berry-gathering and preserving, nature hikes along traditionally accessed trails in the Cascade Mountain Range, native plant identification expeditions, identifying Nooksack Traditional Village sites and names; paddle-making and fundraising.

"a positive place for kids"

Our Mission

To inspire and enable all young people and their families, especially those who need us most, to realize their full potential as productive, responsible and caring citizens.

Our Core Beliefs

Through spirit, mind and body, we are a positive place for kids by focusing on caring, honesty, responsibility and respect.

Boys & Girls Club of America National Conference

Over 100 Native American Club professionals attended a reception in honor of Boys & Girls Clubs in Indian Country on Wednesday, May 3, 2006.

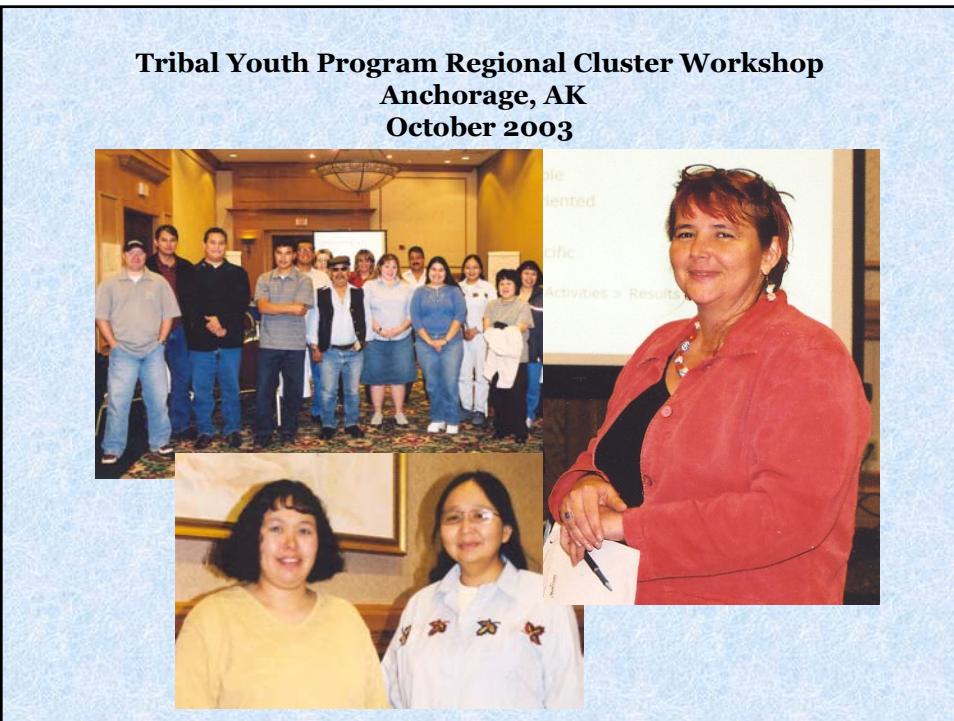

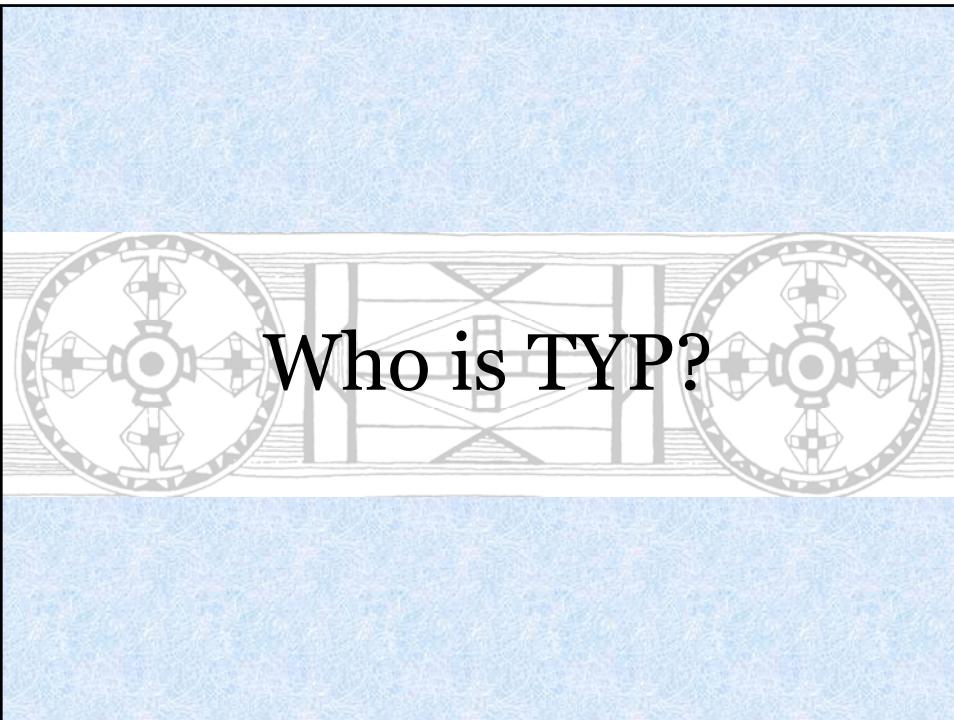

The reception took place the evening before the kick-off of the Boys & Girls Clubs of America's National Conference in Boston, MA.

Later in the evening, a video highlighting the Native American Club Movement from 1992 to today was presented.

The Penobscot Singers from the Penobscot Nation Boys & Girls Club, ME also performed for the group. The crowd enjoyed watching the drummers and dancers and learning more about the history and culture of the Penobscot Nation.
